COFALEC re-elects Marc Casier as President for the period 2020-2022

COFALEC, the association representing the yeast producers in Europe, re-elected Marc CASIER for a fifth two-year term of office at its 61st General Assembly.

Marc Casier stated, "the General Assembly was held by visio conference for reasons of Covid-19. Many topics of interest for COFALEC members have been discussed." Marc Casier highlights the further subjects to be engaged in the future:

- Communicate on the benefits and advantages of yeast in bread, beer and wine making and in other innovative applications. During the Covid-19 confinement, bread consumers have indeed discovered that yeast is an essential ingredient in bread making.
- Continue to secure the raw material supply of the sector. COFALEC will continue to defend molasses as a valuable food and feed product.
- COFALEC supports the Green deal objectives set by the EU commission and will participate and provide solutions to respond to the challenges of the Farm to Fork and Biodiversity strategies. The EU yeast industry is fully engaged to achieve the environmental EU ambitions.
